

THIS WEEK'S SHOPPING LIST (or How I'm Voting with My Dollars)

A large rectangular area with a light blue border and rounded corners, containing 20 horizontal dotted lines for writing a shopping list.

Where you spend your money can make a real difference, even at the grocery store. Climate Counts scores major corporations on their climate action, and every day, when you spend your money, you can vote for climate action by supporting companies that are as serious about tackling climate change as you and your family are. When you make this week's shopping list, use the guide on the back to decide which companies deserve your support. The companies that are "striding" are the good bets (of course, they all need to be doing more).

Visit www.climatecounts.org to see the full scorecards of all the companies we've scored, and while you're there, send a message to companies to let them know you think "climate counts."

WHO THINKS CLIMATE COUNTS?

The higher the score, the greater the commitment to fighting climate change.

KEY TO CLIMATE COUNTS SCORES

 STRIDING. The best Climate Counts choice.

 STARTING. A good Climate Counts choice.

 STUCK. A choice to avoid for climate-conscious consumers.
